SYFPAC – Brevetti Angela featured in CPHI's first Better Stands Case Study following three consecutive Gold Awards for stand sustainability

[Arzignano, 26 January 2026] | SYFPAC – Brevetti Angela has been selected as the subject of CPHI's first-ever Better Stands Case Study, following the achievement of the Gold Award for stand sustainability for three consecutive editions: CPHI Frankfurt 2022, CPHI Barcelona 2023 and CPHI Milan 2024.

The case study, developed by CPHI, highlights how the Italian pharma equipment manufacturer has transformed its exhibition presence into a recognised best practice, demonstrating that sustainability in trade shows can be a concrete, measurable and long-term strategy.

At the core of this recognition lies a practical exhibition approach based on modular and reusable stand design, consistent reuse of materials and structural elements, and exhibition concepts developed to perform across multiple international events rather than a single trade show. Over time, SYFPAC's exhibition space has evolved from 30 to 90 square metres to accommodate complex Blow Fill Seal machinery, while reducing waste and optimising resources through long-standing partnerships.

As outlined in the Better Stands Case Study, this model shows how sustainability and effective presentation can work hand in hand, positioning SYFPAC – Brevetti Angela as a reference point for exhibitors seeking more responsible exhibition strategies. The recognition by CPHI also reflects the company's values: teamwork, attention to detail and consistency, guided by the belief that meaningful progress comes from collaboration and long-term thinking.

Commenting on the announcement, Mr. Rajeev Kabbur, Sales and Marketing Director of Brevetti Angela, said: "This achievement belongs to our people and partners, and it confirms our belief that meaningful progress comes from collaboration and long-term thinking".
